

ABSTRACT

As a result of applying a surplus signal that is outside the recognizable area of a person but within the recording sensitivity
5 range of a recording apparatus to a recording object, this surplus signal is added to the image or sound from the recording object, and the recording medium affected by this surplus signal will not be able to record the image or sound from the recording object correctly.